

Streamline your company to greater profitability through outstanding data and process management

Why data synchronisation and integrity is your most powerful tool for increased profits and better business relationships.

With external requirements for 'clean' data becoming an expected part of everyday business, it is vital that the internal data systems of a company are synchronised and accurate. Only then can you consistently provide accurate data to your trading partners and other external bodies such as datapools, third party sub-contractors, as well as remote office locations.

But, more importantly for the growth of your company, putting as much effort into efficient data handling processes as you do into efficient manufacturing processes could have a greater impact on your long term profitability.

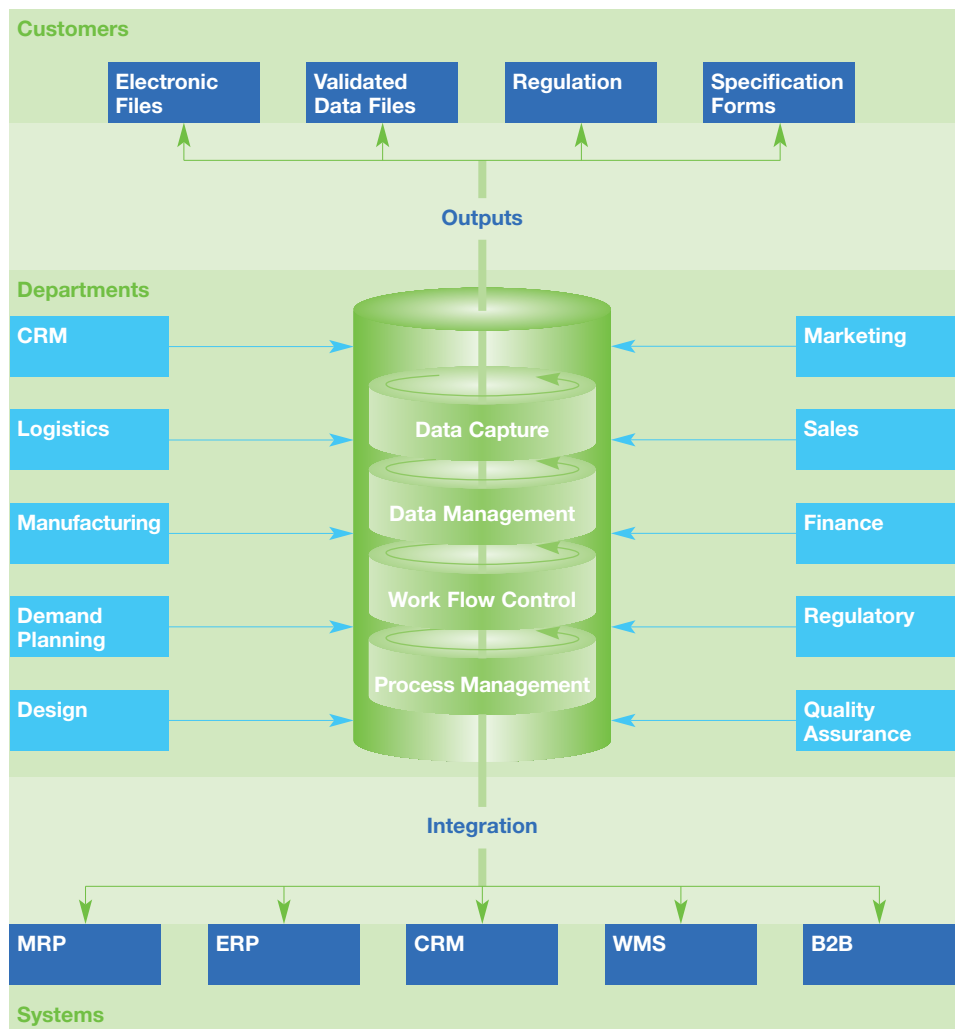

By creating a transparent data and process management environment for your workforce you can eliminate errors in product development and production, which is perhaps the biggest obstacle to attaining a truly profitable and successful product.

Advances in technology now place demands for instant and complex product information, something that you can only achieve efficiently with a comprehensive internal system at the core of your operations. The Bizcaps products not only allow you to produce data to multiple sources in multiple formats, they enable you to increase the efficiencies of your work practices and significantly reduce your time to market.

A product developed in a consistent and efficient environment is a quality product, an available product and a more profitable product.

Accurate information is the most powerful tool to give your company a competitive advantage in the marketplace.

Bizcaps – managing the complexity

Empowering positive business outcomes for manufacturers, distributors and retailers through naturally efficient data and process management. +

We all know that an efficient business is a profitable business. With less time spent managing data and process information, your organisation can spend more time on product development and enhancement, and eliminate the extra costs involved with correcting mistakes.

Companies need to find a solution that not only streamlines data management and workflow practices, but makes maintaining the efficiencies a natural part of business procedures, from the CEO to the warehouse operators.

Bizcaps an evolving company helping you to move forward. +

Bizcaps was founded on a vision to provide companies with quick and easy data management capabilities, to create, maintain and transfer data without having to deal with the associated complexities. Through a natural evolution based on individual customer requirements the company has now achieved results far beyond that initial vision by enabling companies to have full data and process management control. Our extensive industry experience combined with our evolving customers' needs, will continue our evolution to move further towards greater efficiency through data synchronisation.

Take control over your data and process management with Bizcaps solutions and increase your margin for profit by reducing your margin for error. +

Bizcaps has the business specific solution you need to streamline your business practices for long term efficiencies.

Bizcaps has developed a suite of products that will transform data and process management practices within your organisation. It eliminates the errors and multiple handling of data and encourages efficient work practices through genuine knowledge exchange.

Simple, low cost installation and use

- Bizcaps products use an intuitive web based interface for cheap and simple deployment across your whole organisation.
- Because it uses internet and intranet access your staff can quickly view information whether they are at the next desk or on the other side of the world.
- Industry standard fields and on-screen tips and hints reduce training time for your staff and enable them to get up to speed quickly with operating the system.
- Add-on modules and constant development of the products allows your system to grow and develop as you do.

Data management and synchronisation

- The Bizcaps systems help you to cut down data errors by providing a central transparent place to store and manage a range of different data sets.
- You get instant and constant access to important up to date information for all of your staff so that you can increase efficiency and eliminate errors.
- The built-in customisable security gives you full control over access to information updating and viewing so that the data is available to the right people when they need it.
- And, the sophisticated data validation capabilities allow you to easily export data to external recipients such as datapools and your trading partners as well as existing internal systems.

Process management and workflow

- The inherently strong workflow capabilities of the Bizcaps systems facilitate improved management of your existing work practices.
- Bizcaps uses industry standard modules that reflect appropriate business rules, as well as full customisation to your own internal systems.
- Automatic email alerts when system procedures are overlooked prevent avoidable and costly errors and eliminate dependence on individuals.
- With instant and constant access to information and updates your staff will enjoy greater efficiency and more effective communication.

Integration

- Integration with both internal and external systems is the cornerstone of the Bizcaps software systems.
- Bizcaps software enables fast, simple data handling to and from systems like EANnet, as well as internal systems such as ERP, WMS and your website for instant and accurate price and product information.
- The ability to send and receive information in different formats significantly improves data handling and means that, whether data originates from the Bizcaps system or elsewhere, it is still the clear choice for your central source of data.

Bizcaps products give you a cost effective solution to data and process management, whatever your needs.

A single, central data source that will keep your staff connected to the ultimate goal of efficiency and profitability.

Whether you are a smaller enterprise needing to transfer data to datapools and print to retailer forms, or you are a large, complex organisation covering various operations in different locations, Bizcaps offers a range of products to get your data and process management practices working for your company, bringing efficiency and consistency to your daily operations.

The Bizcaps Eziform® software allows smaller organisations to embark on the path towards improved data management with a low cost, effective solution.

The easy to use web interface employs industry standard data entry fields for input. The complexity of managing the data for EANnet has been removed by allowing data to be structured according to the rules. By using these familiar fields, training is greatly reduced and gets your data management process underway quickly.

By allowing you to manage your data in one central place, with built-in validation rules, there is no faster, easier, low cost method to manage and maintain your product data for your trading partners. And, you get the added advantage of automatic upload to EANnet and quick and easy printing to retailer specification forms.

Bizcaps Enterprise is a powerful tool to give a complex organisation superior capabilities in data and process management. The system allows you complete control over your data, regardless of the number and location of your offices and production facilities.

The system integrates fully with other software applications, such as ERP and other internal information management, and has a strong workflow component allowing internal processes to be set up in the system. Users can be restricted in what they can see and do. Management get control and visibility of activities as they are happening.

Designed for the specific needs of different industries Bizcaps Enterprise is available with different pre-configured industry modules as well as being fully configurable to your individual business rules.

The Bizcaps Omni® system is specifically for companies or organisations that receive, validate and store data from trading partners and other organisations.

The database management capabilities and specific workflows complement your needs as a recipient to handle data sent to you from external sources. Using the Omni® system you can easily transfer this information around your company and integrate it into your existing systems.

The advanced data handling of the Omni® system allows you to customise business rules that automatically transfer data to specific recipients within your organisation and enables you to integrate and transfer information to critical systems like ERP, CRM and WMS.
